Schooner Healthcare Services, LLC Announces New Leadership Team

*New Advisory Board established;
Former URAC CEO joins company along with Chief Medical Officer*

Annapolis, Maryland / PRNewswire / -- Schooner Healthcare Services, LLC announces the addition of key senior management leaders to head the growing healthcare consulting and technology company. Senior management now includes:

- Garry Carneal, JD MA, President and CEO;
- Joel V. Brill, MD, AGAF FASGE FACG CHCQM, Chief Medical Officer; and
- Randall Madry, Chief Operating Officer.

“I am delighted that Joel and Randy, both nationally-recognized thought leaders, have joined Schooner Healthcare to identify workflow solutions and deploy technology applications to promote better clinical and financial health care outcomes for our clients,” said Carneal, founder and President/CEO of Schooner Healthcare.

According to Dr. Brill, a nationally-known medical management and predictive modeling expert, “Schooner Healthcare is honored to work with clients such as the Case Management Society of America (CMSA), Population Health Impact (PHI) Institute, Action Healthcare Management, CareStaff/eResource Planner, EmergingMed, the American Board of Quality Assurance and Utilization Review Physicians, Inc. (ABQAURP), FONEMED, life:WIRE, and others, dedicated to improving health by providing patient focused solutions.”

Madry and Carneal served as back-to-back CEOs of URAC from 1994 through 2005. Madry commented that “during our combined tenure, URAC diversified from a single, specialty accreditation agency for utilization management to one of the premier accreditation bodies offering 17 different accreditation programs.”

Schooner Healthcare also announces formation of the Schooner Healthcare Advisory Board, which will provide strategic guidance to the company on opportunities to enhance the care management process. Members include:

- Ken Bleakley, President & CEO, FONEMED;
