TCS Healthcare Technologies Announces Alliance With Schooner Healthcare Services, LLC;

Garry Carneal, former URAC CEO, to work with health care technology firm

Auburn, California / PRNewswire / – TCS Healthcare Technologies, an industry leader in the development of software and clinical solutions to improve medical management performance and effectiveness, announced today that it has entered into a strategic alliance with Schooner Healthcare Services, LLC. Together, the companies will coordinate efforts to leverage technology and health information systems to improve clinical and financial outcomes.

Rob Pock, Founder and CEO of TCS, stated “We are excited to work with Garry Carneal and his team at Schooner Healthcare as we expand the Acuity Advanced Care[™] (ACUITY) System. Their expertise in medical management and healthcare technology will be a key resource to TCS. The ACUITY System offers:

- An integrated, patient-centric care management system
- Outcomes measurement and reporting
- Integrated clinical decision support
- Regulatory and accreditation compliance support
- Enterprise interface and interoperability solutions
- Care Programs with care plans, assessments, letters, education, and reports
- Automated workflow management based on client’s business rules
- Robust security for user and group access and permissions
- Customized implementation and excellent client services

“It is very clear that ACUITY is a best-in-class solution for supporting and improving utilization, case, disease, and wellness management programs,” remarked Garry Carneal. “Schooner Health looks forward to working with TCS to implement the next generation of care management technology and work flow solutions.”

Pock noted further, “ACUITY allows nurses, case reviewers, and physicians to easily coordinate healthcare needs and services and quickly see, track and report on everything that is going on with a person in any care management program.”
